

Alliance Analyst

NPL seeks a disciplined, well organized and self-directed individual to support its mission with a Chicago area utility company.

The successful candidate will be responsible for tracking Contractor work, analyzing work against metrics adopted by Contractor and Company, and presenting findings to Contractor and Company management. He/she will have experience in working with construction bids and contracts, and be able to present contract information concisely.

The successful candidate should have at least three years experience in construction or the building industry, with experience in a supervisory position. He/she must be capable of analyzing data and transforming that data into meaningful information for tracking work staffing, productivity, quality and cost.

Diplomacy is a must, supported by strengths in interpersonal skills and ability to communicate effectively (both written and oral) at various levels within each organization.

Experience with Gant Chart, and with Microsoft Office including PowerPoint, Excel, and Word is required.

Salary DOE; medical benefits and 401(k) available. For more information on NPL, visit its website at www.GoNPL.com
